

Departmental Outcomes Assessment Report

For: Nursing

While I could report the results for under/over 45 credits, I am providing to you a report of over/under 75 credits. This is because your students are at least a year further along than in most programs. The overall assessment shows that 499 assessments for students over 74 credits (2nd year students) were 55% successful, while those under 75 were also 55% successful. Keep in mind that the percentage is the student score divided by the maximum score. So if a student's score is one and the maximum score is two, she would only get a percentage of 50%. This is deceiving if one is a satisfactory rating.

When compared to the assessment averages, the average of the student over all GPAs shows consistency. This is good. The numbers demonstrate that there is room for improvement of student learning, but a deeper analysis will need to take place by the department to inform and guide improvement. With that analysis, you can work to improve either the assessment process or the instruction/curriculum. Please know that I realize this looks like a summative assessment report, but in fact, it is formative. The NCLEX is truly a summative assessment for your program. You will want to use this information to find areas where student learning can improve, decide on changes, then look at these assessment results. The number of assessments is impressive – Thank you!

As you look at the results, both individually and collectively, please start the conversation to address the following points. We can wrap up the conversation at the end of the year or the beginning of next (when we have spring term results):

1. Do the data adequately inform student success on the outcomes and sub-outcomes?
2. Do the data combine with the outcomes and sub-outcomes to present an accurate aggregate picture of student learning?
3. Are the outcomes “actionable?” That is, once you are provided with adequate data, how confident are
